Reviews

This pdf will not be simple to start on reading through but extremely enjoyable to see. I have read and i also am sure that i will planning to read through again once more in the foreseeable future. You wont really feel monotony at whenever you want of the time (that's what catalogues are for relating to if you request me).

O latest born of ancient Cadmus race, My Theban children, with what suppliance Thus throng ye to my presence, bearing high The wands of prayer, the branches wound with wool Rife too the city is with heavy reek Of victims slain, and rife with divers cries, The wail for healing and the moan for death. Not meet I held it, children of my realm, To know thro lips of messengers alone Tales of your suffering. Behold me here, Great dipus, the rumour of the world. But thou, old man, say on--thou standest forth In speech to champion these that here are met-- What are ye set to seek unto your fear What aid, or to your love what grace to crave Right fain am I to help; yea, stern I were, And ruthless, if I recked not of such prayer. The Priest. Hear now, O king and lord of this my land: Thou seest, dipus, how to thy shrines We throng, a crowd of ages manifold. Some faltering yet on childhoods strengthless wing, Some bowed with venerable years, who serve The shrines of gods, as I of Zeus; and some Are chosen blossoms of youths mateless flowers. And otherwhere, with crownd wands, as we, Sit other suppliants, where the marts are wide, Or by the shrines of Pallas twofold fanes, Or by Ismenus fires of augury. For, as thyself art witness, all too deep Wallows the city in the surge...
